DX LISTENING DIGEST is a new publication edited & published by gh, from Oct. 1985. It's basically a country-by-country compilation of the important DX news, drawn from a wide variety of sources--monitoring by the editor and subscriber/contributors; major DX program broadcasts; other domestic and overseas DX hobby publications; professional and confidential sources.

Each alphabetical section is cross-referenced by frequency.

The emphasis is on shortwave broadcast DX news, but there is also timely advance program information which would be too late for the deadline of REVIEW OF INTERNATIONAL BROADCASTING, which is published in alternation; and significant, sometimes humorous items concerning longwave, mediumwave, ham, utility, satellites. Articles and listings of use to the DX listener are also published on a space-available basis. (The first issue included a table of the departments and provinces of Bolivia, along with major cities and towns, to aid in geographical understanding and in deciphering unfamiliar names you may hear mentioned on air.)

ENJOYING RADIO takes up half of each issue. It's a lively, thought-provoking forum edited by David Newkirk, bridging the gap between SWL and ham, between technician and novice, about equipment and philosophy. There's absolutely nothing like it anywhere else, and it's bound to expand your mind!
